Self-help forms and instructions to file for a civil protection order for domestic violence, sexual assault, stalking, anti-harassment, or a vulnerable adult.

1. Before you file

Community organizations can help! If you've experienced domestic violence, harassment, stalking, or sexual assault, or the threat of any of these, get help from your local domestic violence shelter or sexual assault center. Shelters provide safety planning, temporary shelter, legal advocacy, counseling, and other services.

Visit Washington State Domestic Violence Information & Referral (<https://www.domesticviolenceinforeferral.org/domestic-violence-programs>) to search for local programs by county, or for culturally/community specific ( programs?field_county_value=All&field_program_catagory_tid=1) or Tribal programs

(https://www.domesticviolenceinforeferral.org/domestic-violence-programs?field_county_value=All&field_program_catagory_tid=2).

You can call, text, or chat online with advocates 24/7 at any of these:

- National Domestic Violence Hotline
(<https://www.thehotline.org/>), 1-800-799-7233
- National Sexual Assault Hotline (<https://rainn.org/resources>),

Decide if a protection order is right for you. Protection orders are effective for many people, but they're not a good option for everyone.

Decide where to file. You can file for a protection order in the Washington county where you live now, or where you used to live if you fled to avoid abuse, or the county with the court that's closest to you. If you live on the edge of a county, you may be closer to the neighboring county courthouse. It's okay to file there if that's more convenient.

Some courts may offer their own online forms or ways to ask for a protection order online. Ask the court clerk for availability.

Are you a Tribal Member or living in a Tribal Community or on a Reservation? You may have the choice of filing for a protection order in a State Court or a Tribal Court. Each Tribe's code and/or process may differ. Contact the appropriate Tribal Court (<https://goia.wa.gov/tribal-directory/washington-state-tribal-courts>) to learn more. State Court forms may not work in Tribal Court.

Decide if you're going to put your home address in your court papers. The protection order is a public document that anyone can see. Listing your home address can help law enforcement enforce the order because there's no question what address the other party must stay away from. But it also means your address is public knowledge, and it can cause confusion if you move. If you're unsure, talk to an advocate (https://www.domesticviolenceinforeferral.org/domestic-violence-programs?field_county_value=All&field_program_catagory_tid=1). The restrained person can still be ordered to stay away from your home if your address is confidential.

Decide if you want or need immediate protection. You can ask for immediate protection. You must explain how you or someone else may be seriously harmed if you don't get protection now, before the restrained person gets notice that you're asking for a protection order.

Gather any supporting evidence, such as written statements, printed photos, or documents that help prove what you're saying is true. It's helpful, but not required. If you can get it later, you can still file it before your hearing date. Try not to wait until the actual hearing to present evidence for the first time.

Try to get access to a safe device for filling out the paperwork online, if you're not going to fill out the forms by hand. That should be a computer or phone that the abuser cannot get to, even remotely (like a library computer). Techsafety.org \(https://www.techsafety.org/resources-survivors\) has tips for staying safe online.

Be ready to explain in writing why you need a protection order. The judge doesn't research police records or other cases to know your history. The judge will only know what happened if you put it in your written statement. If you don't include a particular incident in your statement, you may not have a chance to tell the judge at the hearing.

"Judge" here refers to judges and court commissioners.

You might be able to get help filling out the forms. Ask the court clerk about local victim services organizations with advocates \(https://www.domesticviolenceinforeferral.org/domestic-violence-programs?field_county_value=All&field_program_catagory_tid=1\) who can help with forms.

Firearms alert! If you're worried about firearms, you can ask the judge to order the restrained person to surrender weapons. You can ask for this when you first file for a protection order, or restraining order, or later if your protection or restraining order doesn't include a weapons order. If law enforcement returns the restrained person's weapons, they must notify you before they do so. Give law enforcement your contact information so they can do this. Email is best.

2. Step-by-step

1. Fill out the forms. You can fill out the forms online or print them to fill out by hand.
2. Attach any supporting evidence to your petition. Everything must be single-sided on regular size paper. Organize your attachments so the judge can understand them. Add labels and dates to pictures, texts or emails.

Some confidential documents should be filed separately under a sealed cover sheet. This keeps them out of the public court file. You must still serve them on the other party. Examples: paystubs, tax returns, bank statements, benefit statements, medical or treatment records, special education records, confidential evaluations or reports.

If you're afraid for your safety or the children's safety, you can block out information identifying your location on the copies you file with the court and give the other party.

3. File your forms with the court clerk. You can bring your completed papers in person to the clerk's office of the court you've chosen. Or you can call the clerk first to ask if it's possible to file electronically.
4. A judge reads your court papers the same day you file, or the next working court day if you file later in the day or when the court is closed. After reading your papers, the judge will decide:
 - Does the judge have authority (called jurisdiction) over you and the restrained person?
 - Does the restrained person's behavior meet the legal definition of domestic violence, sexual assault, stalking, or harassment?
 - For vulnerable adults only, does the behavior meet the legal definition of abandonment, abuse, financial exploitation, or neglect?

If the judge decides you don't meet the legal requirements, the judge won't schedule a hearing. The judge must give you a written denial order explaining why you won't get a protection order. If you don't get a written denial order, ask for one. If you still don't get a denial order after asking for one, try to contact a lawyer as soon as you can.

You'll have 14 days from the date of the denial order to rewrite (amend) your petition with more information and ask the judge to review it again. Use the same case number to file your amended petition.

5. If you've asked for immediate protection and the judge decides you meet the legal requirements, the judge may issue a Temporary Protection Order to start right away. It lasts until the judge has a hearing for the full order within 14 days.

If the judge doesn't give you immediate protection, you can still have the restrained person served and go to a hearing to ask for a full protection order. Or you can withdraw your petition if you don't feel safe going forward without a Temporary Protection Order in place. The restrained person won't be served if you withdraw at this point.

If you didn't ask for immediate protection, the judge will schedule a hearing for a full order if you meet the legal requirements.

6. Service. The court papers must be delivered to (must be served on) the restrained person as soon as possible. If you have a temporary order, it will say who should serve the order. Usually, the judge orders law enforcement to serve.

- If law enforcement will be serving, the clerk's office will send them a service packet with copies of all the documents to be served.
- If the order says the protected person shall make private arrangements for service, the clerk's office will give you the service packet. You must find a process server or another adult to serve the packet on the restrained person.

Service tip! Ask the clerk for a copy of the service packet to keep on hand. If law enforcement is called in an emergency, you can give the service packet to the officer on the scene to serve the restrained person at that time. You might hear this called a "911 service packet."

The restrained person must receive the papers at least 5 court days before the hearing. If the restrained person is under age 18, their parents or legal guardians must also be served.

Your temporary order is legal and enforceable (is in effect) from the moment the judge signs it. But the police can only enforce the order if there's proof that the restrained person was served with a copy of the order.

If you're filing on behalf of a vulnerable adult, the vulnerable adult must also receive a copy of the notice, petition, and any temporary order and order to surrender weapons at least 5 court days before the full hearing. If the vulnerable adult has a legal guardian or conservator, that person must also be served.

Safety alert! If the judge issues an Order to Surrender and Prohibit Weapons, the restrained person must immediately surrender their firearms to law enforcement when they're served. If that doesn't happen for some reason, this could increase your level of risk. A domestic violence or other advocate (<https://www.thehotline.org/>) can help you do safety planning around this issue. You may call 9-1-1 to report if you believe the restrained person still has weapons.

7. File proof of service. Whoever serves the restrained person must fill out written proof of service (also called a "return of service" or "affidavit of service"). If law enforcement is serving, they'll fill out and file this form. Otherwise, the server may give you the completed form for you to file with the court clerk, or they can file it themselves.
8. If the restrained person hasn't been served, but you still need the temporary order, you must go to the full hearing and ask for an extension (a continuance) of the temporary order.

Safety alert! Even if you have a temporary protection order, you must continue to take steps for you and your children to remain safe

(<https://www.domesticviolenceinforeferral.org/domestic-violence->

programs?field_county_value=All&field_program_catagory_tid=2\)

, especially around the time the order is served.

9. Full Hearing. The judge decides here whether to issue a final Protection Order. Usually, a final Protection Order lasts for at least a year. You can ask for a shorter or longer order, based on your needs, in the petition.

3. Get ready for the full hearing

Read our tips to get ready for trial. The hearing is like a very short trial. However, witnesses don't usually testify at protection order hearings. Witnesses can file a declaration form describing what they saw or heard.

You must file witness declarations and any other documents you want the judge to consider with the court clerk and have the restrained person served with a copy before the hearing date. It's best to file these at the same time as your petition, if you can.

If the restrained person doesn't get these copies beforehand, the judge may reschedule the hearing to give everyone time to read them. The reverse is also true: the restrained person must provide you with copies of anything they file. You have the same right to ask at the hearing for more time to review copies of anything served on you at the last minute.

Make some notes to yourself about the main points to make when it's your turn to talk at the full hearing. You may have no more than 5 minutes to speak.

If your hearing is in person, get to the courthouse early. If possible, don't bring your children.

If your hearing is by phone or video, follow these tips for phone and video hearings.

4. Hearing issues

If you know beforehand that you can't make the full hearing, contact the court clerk about rescheduling. Otherwise, if you simply don't go to your full hearing, the judge will dismiss your temporary order.

If the restrained person hasn't been served 5 court days before your full hearing, you must still go to the hearing if you want the temporary protection order extended to allow time for service.

Even if the restrained person didn't get 5 court days' notice but received the order, you can contact the police to enforce the order if there are any violations.

5. At the hearing

The restrained person may be there. If they don't show up and were properly served at least 5 court days before the full hearing, the judge can go ahead without them.

If the other party shows up at the hearing, each of you will get to tell your side of the case. Stand while speaking. Tell the judge briefly what you want and why. Try to keep your argument short. Only outline your main points. You may have as little as 5 minutes to speak. Don't repeat everything in your papers.

If the judge asks you a question, try to answer it directly. Don't interrupt the judge.

After the judge has heard both sides, they'll make a decision. You may need to wait for the judge to write up the order. The clerk may give you a copy right away. If not, ask how you can get a copy.

If the other party didn't show up, they may need to be served with any orders the judge makes at the hearing. Read the order to see if service is required and who must do it.

6. After the full hearing

What if I disagree with the court's decision?

Within 10 days after the entry of the order you can ask for reconsideration or revision. If the 10th day falls on a weekend or judicial holiday, your deadline is the next judicial day.

- Ask for reconsideration if the decision was legally incorrect or you have newly discovered evidence.
- Ask for revision if your case was decided by a court commissioner (not a judge), and you want a judge to review the same evidence.

File your motion for reconsideration or revision with the court clerk.

You can file an appeal within 30 days after entry of the order. You have the right to a transcript or recording of the hearing.

If new evidence would support issuing a protection order, you can refile a petition for a protection order at any time.

How is the order enforced?

Law enforcement will enter your Protection Order in a statewide computer system. It's enforceable statewide and in other states.

You should call the police to report if the person you got the order against breaks (violates) the order. This is a crime. The police must enforce your order and arrest the person who harmed you.

Ask for a Hope Card! A Hope Card is a small card you can easily carry. It's one way to show you have a full protection order. You can request one at courts.wa.gov/hopecard/ (<https://www.courts.wa.gov/hopecard/>). If you don't have a Hope Card, you should always carry a certified copy of your protection order with you.

Can the order be changed or terminated?

Either party can file a motion to modify or terminate the order. A restrained person may do this only once within every 12-month period.

Can the order be renewed?

You can file a motion to renew within 90 days before the order expires.

Example: If your order expires Dec. 15, you can file a motion to renew as early as Sept. 16.

If weapons are surrendered, will they be returned?

Weapons may be returned after the order expires. Contact the law enforcement agency listed on the Order to Surrender Weapons. Ask them to alert you if weapons are returned.

Attachment C: Child Custody

Only complete this attachment if you are asking to protect any of the restrained person's children. If not, skip or remove this attachment.

Do you know of anyone besides yourself and Respondent who has or claims to have a legal right to spend time with the children?

3. Authority Over the Children (Jurisdiction) (RCW 26.27.201 – .221, .231, .261, .271)

The court can make an order protecting the children because:

- ☐ Exclusive, continuing jurisdiction – A Washington court has already made a custody order or parenting plan for the children and the court still has authority to make other orders for the children.
- ☐ Home state jurisdiction – Washington is the child's home state because (check all that apply):
- ☐ The children lived in Washington with a parent or someone acting as a parent for at least the 6 months just before this case was filed, or if a child is less than 6 months old, the child has lived in Washington with a parent or someone acting as a parent since birth.
 - ☐ There were times the children were not in Washington in the 6 months just before this case was filed (or since birth if a child is less than 6 months old), but those were temporary absences.
 - ☐ The children do not live in Washington right now, but Washington was the children's home state sometime in the 6 months just before this case was filed, and a parent or someone acting as a parent of the children still lives in Washington.
 - ☐ The children do not have another home state.
- ☐ No home state or home state declined – No court of any other state (or tribe) has the jurisdiction to make decisions for the children or a court in the children's home state (or tribe) decided it is better to have this case in Washington and:
- The children and a parent or someone acting as a parent have ties to Washington beyond just living here; and
 - There is a lot of information (substantial evidence) about the children's care, protection, education, and relationships in this state.
- ☐ Other state declined – The courts in other states (or tribes) that might be the children's home state have refused to take this case because it is better to have this case in Washington.
- ☐ Temporary emergency jurisdiction – The court can make decisions for the children because the children are in this state now and were abandoned here or need emergency protection because the children (or their parent, brother, or sister) were abused or threatened with abuse. (Check one):
- ☐ A custody case involving the children was filed in the children's home state (name of state or tribe): _____. Washington should take temporary emergency jurisdiction over the children until the petitioner can get a court order from the children's home state (or tribe).
 - ☐ There is no valid custody order or open custody case in the children's home state (name of state or tribe): _____. If no case is filed in the children's home state (or tribe) by the time the children have been in Washington for 6 months, (date): _____, Washington should have final jurisdiction over the children.
- ☐ Other reason (specify): _____

Attachment D: Non-Parents Protecting Children (ICWA)

Only complete this attachment if you are asking to protect any children who are not your own. If not, skip or remove this attachment.

Non-Parents must comply with the Indian Child Welfare Acts (ICWA). If you are not a legal parent of a minor child you are asking to protect, you must find out if the minor is or may be an Indian child. If so, the federal and state Indian Child Welfare Acts will apply to your case. This does not apply to parents.

Parents: You do not have to answer these questions about your own children.

1. Tribal Heritage

If there is a reason to know that a child has tribal heritage (including ancestry or familial political affiliation), the court must treat the child as an Indian child unless and until the affected tribe/s decide otherwise or decline to respond after receiving proper notice.

An Indian child is a child who is a member of an Indian tribe, or who is the biological child of an Indian tribe member and is eligible for membership. Tribes decide their own membership.

Could any of the children be Indian children? (Check all that apply):

☐ No. These children are not Indian children (name/s): _____

I know this because (explain if the children have no tribal heritage, or if any possible tribal heritage has already been explored and decided in another court proceeding that complied with ICWA. Attach orders): _____

☐ Yes or maybe. These children are or may be Indian children. They have or may have heritage from the tribe/s listed below:

Children	Tribes
<input type="checkbox"/> All <input type="checkbox"/> (name/s):
<input type="checkbox"/> All <input type="checkbox"/> (name/s):

I will provide the Indian Child Welfare Act Notice (form GDN M 401) and a copy of this Petition to the tribe/s named above and other necessary people or agencies.

☐ I do not know if any of the children are Indian children or have tribal heritage. I have done the following things to find out:

Warning! You must find out if any of these children have tribal ancestry before a full order is issued.

2. Authority Over Indian Children (Jurisdiction)

- ☐ Does not apply. None of the children are Indian children.
- ☐ A state court can decide this case for any children who are or may be Indian children because:
 - ☐ (Children's Initials): _____ are not domiciled or living on an Indian reservation, and are not wards of a tribal court. (25 U.S.C. § 1911)
 - ☐ (Children's Initials): _____ are domiciled or living on an Indian reservation, and (check all that apply):
 - ☐ The children's tribe agrees to Washington State's concurrent jurisdiction.
 - ☐ The children's tribe decided not to use its exclusive jurisdiction (expressly declined). (RCW 13.38.060)
 - ☐ Washington State should exercise emergency jurisdiction for Indian children temporarily located off the reservation to protect the children from immediate physical damage or harm. (RCW 13.38.140)
