- Parenting Plan

A Parenting Plan is a court order that says who has the right to spend time with and make decisions for a child. It will include:

- Which parent the children will live with most of the time (custody)
- How much time the children will spend with each parent
- Who will make major decisions about the children, including school and medical care

- How the parents will work out major disagreement about the Parenting Plan
- If there are serious safety concerns, the Parenting Plan can include restrictions (limitations) on a parent

Washington courts generally don't use the words custody and visitation. They talk about the residential schedule and decision-making authority for the children.

How can I get a Parenting Plan?

A judge will order a Parenting Plan as part of a family law court case such as:

- Divorce
- Petition for a Parenting Plan (for unmarried parents after parentage is decided)
- Petition to Change Parenting Plan

"Judge" here refers to judges and court commissioners.

Someone who is not a legal parent can't get a Parenting Plan.

- If you believe you are a parent but you're not legally recognized as one, you must first establish legal parentage before getting a Parenting Plan.
- If you want custody of a child and you're not the child's parent, you may get a court order called a Residential Schedule as part of a minor guardianship case. Before 2021, this was called non-parent custody.

- If you're a relative who wants the legal right to visit with a child, you can petition the court for non-parent visitation rights.

When do I file a Parenting Plan?

You can file a Parenting Plan form at different stages of your family law case:

- Beginning – with your petition or response
- Middle – with a motion for temporary orders
- End – with your final orders

You can fill out a Parenting Plan form as a proposal, an order, or an agreement.

- Proposal – A Parenting Plan proposal tells the other parent and the judge what you want.
- Order – A judge signs a Parenting Plan order after making a decision at a temporary orders hearing or trial. If the judge has already made a decision, you must fill out the Parenting Plan order to show the judge's actual decision, even if it is different from what you asked for.
- Agreement – If you and the other parent agree, fill out the Parenting Plan to show the agreement you made. If you both sign the Proposal and Order versions of the plan, the judge will most likely approve it.

Answer a few questions on Get Family and Safety Forms to get the right forms for your situation.

You must have a copy of your proposed Parenting Plan and related papers delivered to (served on) every other party in the case. There are different rules for serving papers to start a case , and serving papers after a case has started.

What's the difference between a temporary and a final Parenting Plan?

Family law cases can take many months from start to finish. Temporary orders, including temporary Parenting Plans, put rules in place for the short-term while the case is in progress. The final Parenting Plan, which the judge makes to end your court case, is meant to be permanent, or at least to cover a much longer period. Because of that, it's easier to change temporary orders than it is to change final orders.

()Can I get a Parenting Plan in Washington State?

It depends. Washington may not have the legal authority (jurisdiction) to make a Parenting Plan if:

- Your children live in a different state
- The children haven't been living in Washington for at least 6 months
- Another state has already made an order about the children

If any of these describes your situation, try to talk to a lawyer before trying to file for a Parenting Plan in Washington State.

Will the judge approve my Parenting Plan?

It depends:

- If you and the other parent agree on a proposed Parenting Plan: the judge will usually approve it.
- If you and the other parent disagree: the judge will decide on a Parenting Plan after hearing or trial. The judge will look at many things when deciding, most importantly what's in the children's best interests. See Chapter 2: Who gets custody?

2. Who gets custody?

In Washington, a Parenting Plan doesn't award custody. Instead, it has a Parenting Time Schedule that says when the children will live with each parent. If the parents don't agree on a schedule, the judge will decide one in the children's best interest.

First the judge must consider if either parent has serious problems that affect the children.

Examples: abandonment, neglect, abuse, domestic violence, sex offense, drug or alcohol abuse, emotional, physical, or other problems.

For certain problems, the judge must limit a parent's time with the children. For other problems, the judge may set limits. See Chapter 3: Limitations and restrictions.

Next, the judge considers the children's relationship with each parent. This is the most important factor. The judge will probably order that the children live with the parent with whom they're most closely bonded. The judge will also consider:

- Agreements the parents have made
- Each parent's past and future potential for taking care of the children
- Each child's emotional needs and developmental level
- The children's relationships with siblings and other important adults, the children's involvement with school, and the children's activities and community
- The parents' wishes
- A mature child's wishes—usually a teenager
- Each parent's work schedule

The judge shouldn't look at which parent earns more or if a parent is going to remarry.

Can I ask for a Parenting Plan that gives us joint custody?

It depends. Washington judges don't automatically make final Parenting Plans that split custody 50/50. Under state law you must meet these requirements:

- There are no legal reasons for the judge to limit either parent's time with the children and
- You've both agreed to the schedule or
- You have a history of cooperation and shared parenting, and live close enough and

- Joint custody is in the children's best interests.

Even if you meet these requirements, you might want to talk to a lawyer (<https://wlh.netlify.app/en/get-legal-help>) about joint custody before agreeing to it or asking for it in a Parenting Plan. Joint custody requires a real commitment from both parents to work together regularly.

3. Limitations and restrictions

If you believe the other parent may harm the children (or harm you), you can ask the judge to limit the other parent's time with the children. Limitations are covered in Attachments A and B of the Parenting Plan form.

Reasons to put limitations on a parent

(☐) Generally, the judge must limit a parent's time with their children if that parent has engaged in any of these, or lives with someone who they know has engaged in any of these:

- Long-term willful abandonment of the children or the parent substantially refuses to care for the children.
- Physical, sexual, or a pattern of emotional abuse of children.
- A history of domestic violence, or an assault or a sexual assault causing serious bodily harm or the fear of it.
- Sex offense or sexual abuse of a child.

The judge may limit a parent's time if they find any of these:

- The parent has neglected the children or hasn't cared for them.
- The parent has a long-term emotional or physical problem interfering with their ability to take care of the children.
- The parent has a long-term substance abuse problem interfering with their ability to take care of the children.
- The parent and children have no emotional bond or a seriously damaged emotional bond.
- The parent has engaged in the abusive use of conflict, meaning they've misused conflict in an ongoing and deliberate way. This could include:
 - Repeated, bad faith violations of court orders
 - Credible threats to harm the other parent, or to harm friends, family, or professionals who are helping the other parent
 - Using the child in conflict
 - Abusive use of the court system
- The parent has denied the other parent contact with the children for a long time without good reason.

A parent denying contact because they're trying to protect themselves or the children from the harm the other parent poses is taking protective action. This is good reason to deny contact.

(If the judge finds reason to limit a parent's time with the children, in most cases, the judge won't give that parent custody. A judge could order many other restrictions.

Limitations (restrictions)

The Parenting Plan can restrict a parent in any way you could reasonably expect to protect the children and, depending on the situation, the parent who has the children most of the time.

For example, the judge can require the restricted parent to see the children only when supervised by a professional supervisor. The judge must include clear written rules for the supervised parent to follow in Attachment C of the Parenting Plan. The supervised parent and supervisor must sign an Acknowledgment that they've read and agree to follow the parenting plan and Attachment C.

If the restricted parent can't afford a professional supervisor or can't get a supervisor for other reasons, such as they live too far from such resources, the judge may allow a lay person to supervise visits if they can prove they'll be able to protect the children.

If the supervised parent breaks (violates) the parenting plan or rules in Attachment C, or the supervisor can't or won't supervise that parent anymore, the other parent can get an immediate restraining order to stop (suspend) visits until the judge can review the situation.

Other common restrictions include:

- Be evaluated for domestic violence, substance abuse, mental health, or anger management issues, with input from the other parent.
- Complete domestic violence, substance abuse, or mental health treatment, or anger management.

- Take random drug or alcohol tests.
- Complete a parenting class.
- Get counseling or take any physician-prescribed medication for their mental health condition.
- Complete a sexual deviancy evaluation.
- Stop interfering with the other parent's contact with the children.
- Stop causing conflict or picking fights with the other parent for no good reason.

In some serious cases, if nothing else will protect the children, a judge may order that a parent has no contact with the children.

Sexual abuse

Generally, a judge must order no contact with the children if a parent has been found to be a sexually violent predator (<https://app.leg.wa.gov/RCW/default.aspx?cite=71.09>) or if a judge found the parent sexually abused a child (their own or others). The sexual abuse finding could be a criminal conviction or a civil finding in any family law or dependency case, including the parenting plan case.

If a parent lives with someone who is a sexually violent predator or who sexually abused a child, the court generally must order no contact in the presence of that person.

Once a judge has found sexual abuse, they must follow very strict rules before allowing contact.

If there are sexual abuse issues in your case, talk with a lawyer.

4. Limitations on both parents

The judge may find reasons to put limitations on both parents in a parenting plan. When this happens, the judge must make detailed written findings about what's in the children's best interest and issue a parenting plan that best maintains the children's emotional growth, health and stability, and physical care. Normally, this would mean not changing the existing arrangement between each parent and the children.

When comparing the risks each parent poses to the children, generally the judge must take the mandatory reasons for limitations more seriously (abandonment, child abuse, domestic violence, assault, sexual abuse).

5. Decision-making

Either parent can make emergency decisions about the children and can make day-to-day decisions when the children are in that parent's care such as what the children will eat, or who will babysit the children.

A Parenting Plan will say if one or both parents can decide non-emergency decisions, such as where the children will go to school, which doctors the children see, and when the children get medical care. But the judge must order that only one parent can make these decisions if certain limiting factors apply to the other parent, or if neither parent wants joint decision-making.

The judge must order sole decision-making to one parent when they find the other has engaged in any of these:

- Long-term willful abandonment of the children or the parent substantially refuses to care for the children.
- Physical, sexual, or a pattern of emotional abuse of children.
- A history of domestic violence, or an assault or a sexual assault causing serious bodily harm or the fear of it.

If any of these are true and the judge wants to order shared decision-making anyway, the judge must make written findings of the clear and convincing evidence that persuaded them not to limit decision making.

The judge may order sole decision-making to one parent if both parents are against shared decision-making, or one is against it, and the judge finds there are good reasons for this.

You can include other types of decisions in your Parenting Plan that are important to your family. For example: extracurricular activities, international travel, cell phones, driver's licenses, tattoos, or haircuts.

Religious upbringing: Unless the judge decides that exposure to a parent's religious views may harm the children, the judge should let each parent give the children the religious instruction the parent chooses while the children are with that parent. This isn't "joint" decision-making. It's each parent making decisions on that parent's time and not interfering with the other parent's decisions.

6. Disagreements

The Parenting Plan asks you to choose a way to solve future disagreements about what it says or means. You can go back to court or choose "Alternative Dispute Resolution (ADR)." ADR means alternatives to court, including counseling, mediation, and arbitration. ADR can help you solve disagreements without going back to court.

If your Parenting Plan says ADR is required, you must try ADR before going to back court over a disagreement.

You can always go back to court to solve a disagreement if ADR doesn't work, or if it's not required.

The judge should not require ADR if any of these are true:

- A limiting factor applies to a parent.
- The parents can't take part in dispute resolution equally.
- One of you can't afford alternative dispute resolution.

ADR choices

If you choose counseling, you'll typically meet with a mental health professional who will use counseling techniques to help resolve your disagreement.

If you choose mediation, you'll meet with a mediator. A mediator is a neutral third party who may be a lawyer, retired judge or court commissioner, or mental health professional. The mediator will try to get you to come to an agreement.

If you choose an arbitrator, you'll meet with a neutral third party (a lawyer, or retired judge or court commissioner) who may try to help you reach agreement, but who will make a decision you both must follow if you cannot.

If the Parenting Plan calls for arbitration, you can file a motion with the court asking for a review of the arbitrator's decision.

You must usually pay a counselor, mediator, or arbitrator. It can cost a lot. But ADR can help you avoid the stress, expense, and unpredictability of court.

7. Enforcement

Once the judge signs a Parenting Plan, it becomes a court order. Both parents must follow it. For example, you may not refuse to allow the other parent to see the children just because that parent hasn't paid child support.

If the other parent doesn't let you see the children when you have the right to, the judge may find the other parent in "contempt." The judge could order make-up visitation time, jail time, fines, or some other type of punishment. Depending on which part of the parenting plan you don't follow, you might even face criminal charges for custodial interference.

Beware: If you have custody, and a judge finds you in contempt more than once in a 3-year period, the judge might give the other parent custody.

You might be able to avoid contempt or criminal charges if you have a good excuse for not following the parenting plan. For example, if following the order would cause you or the children serious harm, that would be a good excuse. Even then, you can't simply refuse to follow the court order. You must return to court to ask for changes to the order.

If you don't want to follow part of a Parenting Plan, you should get the other parent's written permission not to. If that doesn't work, you should contact a lawyer. You might be able to file a motion or petition to change your parenting plan.

8. Changes

A Parenting Plan can be hard to change after a judge signs it, especially if it's a final Parenting Plan. But it is possible. You must go through a court process to change your Parenting Plan.

- If the parents agree to the change, a judge will usually, but not always, change a Parenting Plan, whether it's temporary or final.
- If the parents don't agree to change a temporary Parenting Plan, you can usually file a motion for new temporary orders.

- If the parents don't agree to change a final Parenting Plan, you can file a petition to change parenting plan. A judge may make major changes such as custody only if a major change has taken place in the children's or other parent's life since the judge signed the original parenting plan. It's not enough that the parent wanting the change thinks their life has gotten better and should now have custody.

Answer a few questions on Get Family and Safety Forms to get the right forms for your situation.

Here are some examples of when a judge will make major changes to a Parenting Plan:

- The children have gone to live with one parent for a long time with the permission of the parent who has custody under the Parenting Plan.
- The parent who doesn't want the change has been held in contempt of court at least twice in 3 years, or has been convicted of interfering with the other parent's custody or visitation.
- The present custody situation is physically or emotionally harmful to the children.

The judge can make smaller (minor) changes to a final Parenting Plan more easily. For example, a judge can make minor changes to the amount of time or certain days the children spend with either parent if it's in the children's best interests.

9. Moving (Relocation)

Once you have a Final Parenting Plan, you can probably legally move away with the children if you do what the Parenting Plan says. All Parenting Plans have a section on moving with the children that summarizes state law:

- You usually must give the other parent notice beforehand. (There are a few exceptions to this.)
- You usually must give the other parent a chance to object to a move outside the school district.
- The other parent can ask the court to change your Parenting Plan, including who the children live with, if you ask to move the children outside of the school district.

The custodian is (name): _____ solely for the purpose of all state and federal statutes which require a designation or determination of custody. Even though one parent is called the custodian, this does not change the parenting rights and responsibilities described in this plan.

Washington law generally refers to parenting time and decision-making, rather than custody. However, some state and federal laws require that one person be named the custodian. The custodian is the person with whom the children are scheduled to reside a majority of their time.

5. Parenting Time Schedule Attachments (Residential Provisions)

Important! You must include at least one of Attachments R, A, or B to this plan. The schedule for where your children will spend time is in the attachments. The court should not sign a parenting plan without at least one of these attachments.

6. Decision-making

When the children are with you, you are responsible for them. You can make day-to-day decisions for the children when they are with you, including decisions about safety and emergency healthcare.

Important! Parenting involves decision-making in many areas. If you believe there are other decisions that are important to your family, list them under "Other" above. Some examples include: extracurricular activities, international travel, cell phones, driver's licenses, tattoos, and haircuts.

b. Reasons for limits on major decision-making, if any:

- ☐ There are no reasons to limit major decision-making.
- ☐ Major decision-making should be limited because (check all that apply):
 - ☐ Both parents are against shared decision-making.
 - ☐ One of the parents does not want to share decision-making and this is reasonable because of:
 - ☐ the history of each parent's participation in decision-making.
 - ☐ the parents' ability and desire to cooperate with each other in decision-making.
 - ☐ the distance between the parents' homes makes it hard to make timely decisions together.

7. Dispute Resolution

Important! After this parenting plan is signed by a judge or commissioner, if you and the other parent disagree about shared decisions or what parts of this plan mean, the court may require you to use a dispute resolution provider before going back to court. If a dispute resolution provider is checked below, the parents may, and sometimes must, use this provider before filing a Petition to Change a Parenting Plan or a Motion for Contempt for not following the plan. Check your county's Local Court Rules.

Dispute resolution must occur as follows (check one):

- ☐ As described in Attachment A. (Skip to 8.)
- ☐ As ordered below. (Complete 7.a. and 7.b.)

a. The parents will go to (check one):

- ☐ The dispute resolution provider below (before they may go to court):
 - ☐ Mediation (mediator or agency name): _____
 - ☐ Arbitration (arbitrator or agency name): _____

☐ Counseling (counselor or agency name): _____

If a dispute resolution provider is not named above or if the named provider is no longer available, the parents may agree on a provider or ask the court to name one.

Important! Unless there is an emergency, the parents must participate in the dispute resolution process listed above in good faith, before going to court for disagreements about joint decisions or what parts of this plan mean. This section does not apply to disagreements about money or support.

☐ Court (without having to go to mediation, arbitration, or counseling).
(If you check this box, skip to 8 below and do not fill out 7.b.)

b. If mediation, arbitration, or counseling is required, one parent must notify the other parent by (check one): ☐ certified mail ☐ other (specify): _____.

☐ (Name): _____ will pay _____ %,
(Name): _____ will pay _____ %.

☐ based on each parents' Proportional Share of Income (percentage) from line 6 of the Child Support Worksheet.

☐ as decided through the dispute resolution process.

What to expect in the dispute resolution process:

- Preference shall be given to carrying out the parenting plan.
- If you reach an agreement, it must be put into writing, signed, and both parents must get a copy.
- If the court finds that you have used or frustrated the dispute resolution process without a good reason, the court can order you to pay financial sanctions (penalties) including the other parent's legal fees.
- You may go back to court if the dispute resolution process doesn't solve the disagreement or if you disagree with the arbitrator's decision.

8. Transportation Arrangements

☐ Does not apply. Attachment A or B provides for no residential time.

☐ The children will be exchanged for parenting time (picked up and dropped off) at:

☐ each parent's home

☐ school or daycare, when in session

☐ other location (specify): _____

Who is responsible for arranging transportation?

☐ The picking up parent – The parent who is about to start parenting time with the children must arrange to have the children picked up.

- ☐ The dropping off parent – The parent whose parenting time is ending must arrange to have the children dropped off.

Other details (if any): _____

9. Moving with the Children (Relocation)

Anyone with majority or substantially equal residential time (at least 45 percent) who wants to move with the children must notify every other person who has court-ordered time with the children.

Move to a different school district

If the move is to a different school district, the relocating person must complete the form Notice of Intent to Move with Children (FL Relocate 701) and deliver it at least 60 days before the intended move.

Exceptions:

- If the relocating person could not reasonably have known enough information to complete the form in time to give 60 days' notice, they must give notice within 5 days after learning the information.
- If the relocating person is relocating to a domestic violence shelter or moving to avoid a clear, immediate, and unreasonable risk to health or safety, notice may be delayed 21 days.
- If information is protected under a court order or the address confidentiality program, it may be withheld from the notice.
- A relocating person who believes that giving notice would put themselves or a child at unreasonable risk of harm, may ask the court for permission to leave things out of the notice or to be allowed to move without giving notice. Use form Motion to Limit Notice of Intent to Move with Children (Ex Parte) (FL Relocate 702).

The Notice of Intent to Move with Children can be delivered by having someone personally serve the other party or by any form of mail that requires a return receipt.

If the relocating person wants to change the Parenting Plan because of the move, they must deliver a proposed Parenting Plan together with the Notice.

Move within the same school district

If the move is within the same school district, the relocating person still has to let the other parent know. However, the notice does not have to be served personally or by mail with a return receipt. Notice to the other party can be made in any reasonable way. No specific form is required.

Warning! If you do not notify...

A relocating person who does not give the required notice may be found in contempt of court. If that happens, the court can impose sanctions. Sanctions can include requiring the relocating person to bring the children back if the move has already happened and ordering the relocating person to pay the other side's costs and lawyer's fees.

Right to object

A person who has court-ordered time with the children can object to a move to a different school district and/or to the relocating person's proposed Parenting Plan. If the move is within the same school district, the other party doesn't have the right to object to the move, but they may ask to change the Parenting Plan if there are adequate reasons under the modification law (RCW 26.09.260).

An objection is made by filing the Objection about Moving with Children and Petition about Changing a Parenting/Custody Order (Relocation) (form FL Relocate 721). File your Objection with the court and serve a copy on the relocating person and anyone else who has court-ordered time with the children. Service of the Objection must be by personal service or by mailing a copy to each person by any form of mail that requires a return receipt. The Objection must be filed and served no later than 30 days after the Notice of Intent to Move with Children was received.

Right to move

During the 30 days after the Notice was served, the relocating person may not move to a different school district with the children unless they have a court order allowing the move.

After the 30 days, if no Objection is filed, the relocating person may move with the children without getting a court order allowing the move.

After the 30 days, if an Objection has been filed, the relocating person may move with the children pending the final hearing on the Objection unless:

- The other party gets a court order saying the children cannot move, or
- The other party has scheduled a hearing to take place no more than 15 days after the date the Objection was served on the relocating person. (However, the relocating person may ask the court for an order allowing the move even though a hearing is pending if the relocating person believes that they or a child are at unreasonable risk of harm.)

The court may make a different decision about the move at a final hearing on the Objection.

Parenting Plan after move

If the relocating person served a proposed Parenting Plan with the Notice, and if no Objection is filed within 30 days after the Notice was served (or if the parties agree):

- Both parties may follow that proposed plan without being held in contempt of the Parenting Plan that was in place before the move. However, the proposed plan cannot be enforced by contempt unless it has been approved by a court.
- Either party may ask the court to approve the proposed plan. Use form Ex Parte Motion for Final Order Changing Parenting Plan – No Objection to Moving with Children (FL Relocate 706).

Attachment A: Limitations

Only complete this attachment if your Parenting Plan involves limitations on a parent under RCW 26.09.191 or .192. If not, remove this attachment.

1. Reasons for putting limitations on a parent (under RCW 26.09.191 or .192)

a. Abandonment by a parent, or child abuse, domestic violence, assault, sex offense, or sexual abuse of a child by a parent or a person living with a parent.

If a parent has any of these problems, the court must limit that parent's contact with the children and that parent's right to make decisions for the children, and may not require dispute resolution other than court unless the court makes the required findings in 3. See definitions at the end of this attachment.

- ☐ Neither parent has any of these problems.
- ☐ A parent has one or more of these problems as follows (check all that apply):
 - ☐ Abandonment – (Parent's name): _____
intentionally abandoned a child in this case for an extended time.
 - ☐ Child Abuse – (Parent's name): _____
(or someone living in that parent's home) abused or threatened to abuse a child.
The abuse was (check all that apply):
☐ physical ☐ repeated emotional abuse.
 - ☐ Domestic Violence – (Parent's name): _____
(or someone living in that parent's home) has a history of domestic violence as defined in RCW 7.105.010.
 - ☐ Assault – (Parent's name): _____
(or someone living in that parent's home) has assaulted someone causing grievous physical harm or causing fear of such harm, or sexually assaulted someone.
 - ☐ Sex offense or sexual abuse of a child by a parent or a person living with a parent. (*Also complete Attachment B.)

b. Other problems that may harm the children's best interests or interfere with the performance of parenting functions. These problems could include neglect, emotional or physical problems, substance abuse, lack of emotional ties, abusive use of conflict, withholding the child, or other problems.

If a parent has any of these problems, the court may limit that parent's contact with the children and that parent's right to make decisions for the children.

- ☐ Neither parent has any of these problems.
- ☐ A parent has one or more of these problems as follows (check all that apply):
 - ☐ Neglect – (Parent's name): _____
neglected their parental duties towards a child in this case.
 - ☐ Emotional or physical problem – (Parent's name): _____
has a long-term emotional or physical problem that interferes with their performance of parenting functions.

- ☐ Substance Abuse – (Parent's name): _____
has a long-term problem with drugs, alcohol, or other substances that interferes with their performance of parenting functions.
- ☐ Lack of emotional ties – (Parent's name): _____

- ☐ Abusive use of conflict – (Parent's name): _____
has engaged in ongoing and deliberate actions to misuse conflict.
- ☐ Withholding the child – (Parent's name): _____
has kept the other parent away from a child in this case for a long time, without a good reason. Withholding does not include protective actions taken by a parent in good faith for the legitimate and lawful purpose of protecting themselves or the parent's child from the risk of harm posed by the other parent.
- ☐ Other (specify): _____

2. If limitations apply to both parents

When limitations apply to both parents, the court must compare the risks and may make an exception in applying mandatory limitations based on 1.a. When reasons for mandatory limitations in 1.a. apply to one parent and discretionary limitations in 1.b. apply to another parent, the court must prioritize the mandatory limitations when limiting the residential schedule, decision making, and dispute resolution. If the court does not prioritize the mandatory limitations, the court must make detailed written findings why not. RCW 26.09.191(7).

- ☐ Does not apply.
- ☐ There are reasons for putting limitations on both parents. The court makes the following findings about the comparative risk of harm to the children posed by each parent, including any decision not to impose limitations or not to prioritize mandatory limitations (detailed written findings required):

3. Limitations on a parent

Limitations shall be reasonably calculated to protect the children and the other parent from the physical, sexual, or emotional abuse or harm that could result from contact with the limited parent.

- ☐ The following limits or conditions apply to (parent's name): _____
_____ (check all that apply):
- ☐ Use Attachment B if the court found sex offense or sexual abuse of a child (skip to 4.).

- ☐ No contact with the children. Limitations on the residential time with the children will not adequately protect the children from the harm or abuse that could result from contact.
- ☐ Limited contact as shown in the Parenting Time Schedule (Attachment R).
- ☐ Limited contact as follows (specify schedule, list all contact here instead of in the Residential Schedule): _____

- ☐ Supervised contact. All parenting time shall be supervised. Any costs of supervision must be paid by (name): _____

Supervision shall be (check one):

- ☐ Non-professional. A non-professional supervisor is allowed because they have shown through sworn testimony and evidence of past interactions with children that they are capable and committed to protecting the children from physical or emotional abuse or harm; and

The parent cannot use professional supervision because (check all that apply):

- ☐ Geographic isolation or other factors make professionally supervised visitation inaccessible.
- ☐ They cannot pay for professional supervision. The parent has a GR 34 fee waiver or shown other evidence of financial indigency.

The non-professional supervisor/s shall be (name/s): _____

Dates and times of supervised contact (check one):

- ☐ As shown in the Parenting Time Schedule (Attachment R).
- ☐ As arranged by the supervisor for up to ____ hour/s per visit, up to ____ visits per (frequency): _____
- ☐ As follows (specify): _____

Location – The supervised contact will occur (check all that apply):

- ☐ in public location/s (specify): _____
- ☐ in the supervised parent's home
- ☐ at the supervised visitation facility
- ☐ other (specify): _____

(Important! Put transportation arrangements in Parenting Plan section 8.)

Specific rules for supervised contact:

Important! No visits shall take place until the supervised parent and supervisor (or professional supervision program representative) have signed the Supervised Visitation Acknowledgment, FL All Family 141, confirming that they have read the court orders and the rules for supervised visitation and agree to follow them.

☐ Other limitations or conditions during parenting time (specify): _____

☐ No limitations despite reasons

There is clear and convincing evidence for no limitations on a parent even though there are reasons for limitations checked in 1.a. above, considering the following factors:

▪ Any current risk posed by the parent to the physical or psychological well-being of the child or other parent;
(Express findings): _____

▪ Whether a parent has demonstrated that they can and will prioritize the child's physical and psychological well-being;
(Express findings): _____

▪ Whether a parent has followed and is likely to follow court orders;
(Express findings): _____

▪ Whether a parent has genuinely acknowledged past harm and is committed to avoiding harm in the future; and
(Express findings): _____

▪ A parent's compliance with previously court-ordered treatment. A parent's compliance with the requirements for participation in a treatment program does not, by itself, constitute evidence that the parent has made the requisite changes.
(Express findings): _____

(Other findings, if any): _____

4. Evaluation or treatment

- ☐ Not required.
- ☐ (Name): _____ must (check all that apply):
- ☐ be evaluated for: _____
with collateral input from the other parent. Any evaluation report that does not include collateral input must include details as to why and attempts made to obtain collateral input.
 - ☐ start (or continue) and comply with treatment:
 - ☐ as recommended by the evaluation.
 - ☐ as follows (specify kind of treatment and any other details): _____

 - ☐ provide a copy of the evaluation and compliance reports (specify details): _____

If this parent does not follow the evaluation or treatment requirements above, then (what happens): _____

5. Decision-making

When the children are with you, you are responsible for them. You can make day-to-day decisions for the children when they are with you, including decisions about safety and emergency healthcare. Major decisions must be made as follows:

a. Who can make major decisions about the children?

Type of Major Decision	Joint (parents make these decisions together)	Limited (only the parent named below has authority to make these decisions)
School/Educational	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/> (Name):
Healthcare (not emergency)	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/> (Name):
Other:	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/> (Name):
Other:	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/> (Name):
Other:	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/> (Name):

Important! Parenting involves decision-making in many areas. If you believe there are other decisions that are important to your family, list them under "Other" above. Some examples include: extracurricular activities, international travel, cell phones, driver's licenses, tattoos, and haircuts.

b. Reasons to limit major decision-making, if any

- ☐ No limits (check one):

- ☐ Neither parent has any of the problems described in 1.a. above, and the court finds no reason to limit major decision-making.
- ☐ Even though a parent has problems as described in 1.a. above, the court made detailed findings of clear and convincing evidence not to impose limitations in 3 above.
- ☐ Limits (check all that apply):
 - ☐ Major decision-making must be limited because of the problems in 1.a. above.
 - ☐ Major decision-making should be limited because (check all that apply):
 - ☐ Both parents are against shared decision-making.
 - ☐ One of the parents does not want to share decision-making and this is reasonable because of:
 - ☐ problems as described in 1.b. above.
 - ☐ the history of each parent's participation in decision-making.
 - ☐ the parents' ability and desire to cooperate with each other in decision-making.
 - ☐ the distance between the parents' homes makes it hard to make timely decisions together.
 - ☐ There are reasons to limit both parents' decision-making. The court made detailed findings about the comparative risk in 2 above.

6. Dispute Resolution

Important! After this parenting plan is signed by a judge or commissioner, if you and the other parent disagree about shared decisions or what parts of this plan mean, the court may require you to use a dispute resolution provider before going back to court. If there are limitations in 1.a., the court may only require dispute resolution other than court if the court makes the required findings in 3. If a dispute resolution provider is checked below, the parents may, and sometimes must, use this provider before filing a Petition to Change a Parenting Plan or a Motion for Contempt for not following the plan. Check your county's Local Court Rules.

a. The parents will go to (check one):

- ☐ The dispute resolution provider below (before they may go to court):
 - ☐ Mediation (mediator or agency name): _____
 - ☐ Arbitration (arbitrator or agency name): _____

If there is a domestic violence finding in 1.a. above, arbitration may proceed without an additional Order Allowing or Terminating Arbitration-At Risk Party, form FL All Family 193, as long as reasonable procedures are in place to protect the party from risk of harm, harassment, or intimidation. RCW 26.14.110.

- ☐ Counseling (counselor or agency name): _____

If a dispute resolution provider is not named above or if the named provider is no longer available, the parents may agree on a provider or ask the court to name one.

Important! Unless there is an emergency, the parents must participate in the dispute resolution process listed above in good faith, before going to court for disagreements about joint decisions or what parts of this plan mean. This section does not apply to disagreements about money or support.

- ☐ Court (without having to go to mediation, arbitration, or counseling).
(If you check this box, don't fill out 6.b.)

b. If mediation, arbitration, or counseling is required, one parent must notify the other parent by (check one): ☐ certified mail ☐ other (specify): _____.

The parents will pay for the mediation, arbitration, or counseling services as follows (check one):

- ☐ (Name): _____ will pay _____ %,
(Name): _____ will pay _____ %.

- ☐ based on each parents' Proportional Share of Income (percentage) from line 6 of the Child Support Worksheet.

- ☐ as decided through the dispute resolution process.

What to expect in the dispute resolution process:

- Preference shall be given to carrying out the parenting plan.
- If you reach an agreement, it must be put into writing, signed, and both parents must get a copy.
- If the court finds that you have used or frustrated the dispute resolution process without a good reason, the court can order you to pay financial sanctions (penalties) including the other parent's legal fees.
- You may go back to court if the dispute resolution process doesn't solve the disagreement or if you disagree with the arbitrator's decision.
