If Child Protective Services is investigating you and you're a domestic violence survivor, know your rights and how you can get help.

Know your rights:

- CPS should ask about domestic violence and what you're doing to keep your kids safe
- CPS must try to keep you and your kids together that includes helping you all stay safe from the abuser
- CPS should not hold you responsible for things the abuser does

The Washington State Coalition Against Domestic Violence has more information (https://wscadv.org/resources/know-your-rights-when-cps-comes-knocking/) to know your rights with CPS

If you need help with CPS, you can:

• Talk to your attorney (if you have one assigned to your case)

- Ask the Office of the Family and Children's Ombudsman
   (https://ofco.wa.gov/)(https://ofco.wa.gov/) for help at (800) 571-7321
- Call the Children's Administration's Office of Constituent Relations
   (https://www.dcyf.wa.gov/contact-us/constituent-relations) at (800) 723-4831
- Talk to a domestic violence advocate (https://www.thehotline.org/)

Community organizations can help! If you've experienced domestic violence, harassment, stalking, or sexual assault, or the threat of any of these, get help from your local domestic violence shelter or sexual assault center. Shelters provide safety planning, temporary shelter, legal advocacy, counseling, and other services.

Visit Washington State Domestic Violence Information & Referral (https://www.domesticviolenceinforeferral.org/domestic-violence-programs) to search for local programs by county, or for culturally/community specific
