State v. Blake is a 2021 Washington State Supreme Court decision that says the state's drug possession law is unconstitutional.

If you were convicted of drug possession on or before February 25, 2021, you can get those convictions cleared ("vacated") and removed from your criminal record. You may also get a refund of related costs you paid on those cases, including legal financial obligations (LFOs).

1. Fast facts

Vacate your drug possession convictions

Because of the State v. Blake decision, you can vacate any Washington State felony drug possession conviction between 1971 and February 25, 2021.

Vacating a conviction removes it from your criminal record. This means the conviction will be treated as if it never happened.

The law the court found unconstitutional is “Unlawful Possession of a Controlled Substance” or “VUCSA – possession” (RCW 69.50.4013 and earlier versions of that law).

You may also be able to vacate misdemeanor drug possession convictions and get LFO refunds from District or Municipal Courts. Read Civil Survival's Guide to Blake Eligibility (<https://civilsurvival.org/guides/determining-blake-eligibility/>). It lists the type of convictions that can now be vacated because of Blake.

If you don't remember the details of your conviction/s, Civil Survival can provide you with a free copy of your criminal history (<https://civilsurvival.org/contact/request-criminal-history/>).

Immigrants: If you weren't born in the United States, don't try this process on your own. Get legal help and be sure that your lawyer is aware of the immigration consequences by telling them that they should contact the Washington Defender Association for immigration case assistance (<https://defensenet.org/case-support/wda-immigration-project/wdaip-case-assistance/>).

Currently incarcerated or on community custody: People with unconstitutional drug possession convictions who are incarcerated or on community custody for felony drug possession are being resentenced or their supervision is being shortened. If a friend or loved one is in this situation and hasn't heard from an attorney about resentencing, they should call the Washington State Office of Public Defense at 800-414-6064, ext. 218.

Ask to refund your LFOs

If you were convicted only of simple drug possession, you are entitled to a refund of all LFOs that you paid on that case.

After you get your conviction vacated, you can apply to the Washington Courts Blake Refund Bureau (<https://refund.courts.wa.gov/>) to get your refund.

If you were convicted of drug possession and other offenses at the same, your right to a LFO refund is less clear. It depends on what those other crimes are. Get legal help if this is your situation.

You may need to take action to get your full refund:

- If you paid LFOs to a collection agency or other private business for your drug possession conviction, not directly to the court, you may need a lawyer to help get a full refund. These are called Blake “third-party expenses.”
- If you receive SSI or other public benefits, be sure to report any LFO refund to the benefits agency. You may have to spend the refund quickly to avoid eligibility problems. Learn how to protect your benefits in this situation from Civil Survival (<https://civilsurvival.org/guides/refund-check-social-security/>).

- If you owe more than $100 in unpaid child support to the other parent, the Washington State Division Child Support (DCS) will take up to half your Blake refund (<https://www.dshs.wa.gov/esa/division-child-support/blake-refunds>) if it's over $50. If this would be a hardship for you, call to discuss your options with your child support case manager, 1-800-442-KIDS (5437).

Costs of Supervision Refunds

Once your case is vacated, you're also entitled to a refund of any costs of supervision that you paid to the Department of Corrections (DOC). DOC is automatically sending out those refunds in chronological order. To be sure that you receive your COS refund, update your mailing address with DOC (<https://www.doc.wa.gov/corrections/justice/resentencing/blake-refunds.htm>)

Veterans Benefits

If you lost veterans benefits due to an unconstitutional drug possession conviction, get legal help. You may be able to get back the value of the VA benefits that you lost.

Administrative Vacate Team

As of spring 2025, a team at the Administrative Office of the Courts (AOC) is working with a few district and municipal courts to automatically vacate unconstitutional drug possession convictions without you needing to do anything. This team is just getting started. The courts with whom this team is working are sending out a notice of hearing inviting you to attend the hearing in person or virtually, but you aren't required to attend. At those hearing, the judge is signing many orders vacating unconstitutional convictions.

After the hearing, the clerk's office is mailing copies of the orders, along with information about what the vacate order means and next steps.

4. Self-help

To vacate your conviction, you or your lawyer must file a written request to the court in the county where you were convicted. That written request is called a "motion." Every county is handling Blake motions differently.

For King, Pierce, Snohomish, Cowlitz, and Asotin counties, don't do this on your own. There's an easier way!

The forms and step-by-step instructions are for vacating convictions from Superior Court. We don't yet have forms or instructions for District or Municipal Court convictions.

If you were convicted of other offenses at the same time as drug possession, your case is more complicated. Try to get legal help.

If your drug possession conviction was recent and you entered a plea to avoid a higher charge, there is a slight chance the prosecutor will recharge you at that higher defense. Try to get legal help.

5. Before you file

If your case is right for self-help, you'll need to gather information before you follow our step-by-step instructions.

1. Find your case number/s. Each court case has a case number (also called “cause” number) assigned to it. Before you can vacate a conviction, you need to figure out what your case number is. To find your case number online, search by your name on the Washington State Courts' Person Search (<https://dw.courts.wa.gov/>) or Odyssey Portal (<https://odysseyportal.courts.wa.gov/odyportal>). (This search doesn't work for King or Pierce County cases.)

This can be tricky. If you have trouble with the web search, try calling the Superior Court Clerk's office (https://www.courts.wa.gov/court_dir/?fa=court_dir.county) in the county where you were convicted. They can look up your name and tell you your case number.

If you are calling the clerk, also ask them for a non-certified copy of your Judgment and Sentence and LFO Accounting Summary . (See step 2.)

2. Gather your documents. Once you have your case number/s, you can get a copy of the Judgment and Sentence (J&S) from each case. This is the court document that lists the offenses that you were convicted of and the sentence the judge ordered. It also has the amount of LFOs imposed and your signature. You don't need a certified copy of your J&S. Just get a regular copy.

If you've paid any LFOs, you also can get a copy of your LFO Accounting Summary. This summary shows how much you have paid, including interest. (It's sometimes called a "case financial history", not a summary.) You can ask for this money to be refunded to you when your conviction is vacated. If you were convicted of another offense in the same case, you may not be eligible for a refund.

Ask the Superior Court Clerk's office (https://www.courts.wa.gov/court_dir/?fa=court_dir.county) for your J&S and the LFO Accounting Summary. You can do this in person or by phone or mail. This can take several weeks. You'll be charged for the copies of the J&S. The LFO Accounting Summary should be free.

6. Step-by-step

If your case is right for self-help, and you've gathered your documents, follow these steps to vacate your conviction on your own, without a lawyer.

1. Fill out the forms. You can fill out the forms online (<https://walawhelp.documate.org/start/playground2/Blake%20Vacate%20Forms>) or print them to fill out by hand.
2. Contact the prosecutor's office (<https://waprosecutors.org/prosecutordirectory/>).

Before filing your papers or scheduling a court hearing, you should contact the prosecutor's office involved in your case to see if they might agree. This will take some time. When you call, you can say:

I'm filing a motion to vacate my drug possession conviction based on the State v. Blake case. Which prosecutor in your office handles Blake cases? What's the best way for me to send paperwork to you? Is a hearing always required?

Write down the prosecutor's name, then send that person a copy of your Motion (with any attachments) and a proposed Order. Wait a few days, then call that prosecutor to ask if they'll agree to sign an order vacating your conviction.

The Prosecutor may agree to vacate your conviction but may want to prepare and present their own order. That might be okay, but you should read the Prosecutor's proposed order carefully. Make sure it says that your conviction is being vacated because it is unconstitutional and void.

Also, ask that the order list the specific amount of LFOs you paid for this case. Some courts do not include the amount, just that you will get a refund. If you owe LFOs on other cases in the same county, they may apply your refund to those other cases, but they are not supposed to. Otherwise, you should get the refund.

If you don't agree with everything the prosecutor's proposed order says, you don't have to sign it! You can schedule a hearing and ask the judge to sign your proposed order instead of the prosecutor's. You must follow court rules and properly notify the prosecutor of the hearing. Try to get legal help if you and the prosecutor disagree on the order.

You have the right to file your motion and get a decision from a judge.

If the Prosecutor says your case is not eligible for a Blake vacate, you should try to get legal help.

If you have low income, you can also ask the judge to assign a lawyer to represent you at public expense. If the judge refuses to assign a lawyer, please contact your local public defender (<https://opd.wa.gov/public-defender-offices>).

3. Make 3 copies of your completed forms (except for the Proof of Service).

4. Call or visit the Superior Court Clerk's Office
(https://www.courts.wa.gov/court_dir/?fa=court_dir.county).

Tell the clerk you will be filing a motion to vacate your drug possession conviction because of the State v. Blake case. If a hearing is required, tell the clerk you want to schedule a hearing on your motion 3 or 4 weeks from now.

Ask the clerk:

- What day and time can I schedule a hearing on my Blake motion to vacate?
- Which docket or calendar will the motion be on?
- What courtroom will the hearing be in? (This may be assigned on the day of the hearing.)
- Is there an option to appear remotely? (Phone or video.)
- Do you have a local form I have to use to schedule a hearing?

If the clerk says you must use their local form, ask them where you can get that form. Otherwise, you can use the Notice of Hearing form we give you. Write in the hearing details you got from the clerk.

In some counties the judge may decide these motions without a hearing. If the clerk says you don't need a hearing date, ask when you can expect to get a decision. You still need to follow all the steps below (except preparing for and going to the hearing).

The clerk should not charge you a fee to file this motion.

5. File the originals with the Superior Court Clerk.

To file in person:

- Bring your originals and copies to the clerk's office
- Give the clerk your set of originals to file

- Ask the clerk to stamp your copies to show the date you filed the originals, OR stamp the copies yourself
- Take the stamped copies back from the clerk. The clerk keeps the originals

To file by mail: mail the court clerk your originals plus one set of copies with a postage-paid return envelope addressed to you.

6. Deliver or mail working copies to the judge if local rules require it.

Ask the clerk where to deliver the judge's working copies. (Skip this step if local rules don't require it.)

7. Deliver or mail a copy to the prosecutor's office right away. Most counties require service at least 14 days before a hearing. Ask the clerk if your county's deadline is different.

You can serve the prosecutor by hand delivery or regular mail.

Hand Delivery means handing a copy to someone who works in the prosecutor's office. Have them stamp the date on your copy of the same papers. Tell them you've scheduled a hearing, and they should give your papers to a prosecutor right away.

Mail: If you're mailing, you must mail your papers more than 3 days before your deadline.

- When counting, don't count the day of mailing, weekends, or court holidays (Example: if you mail something on a Monday, it counts as served on Thursday)

- If the third day is on a weekend or holiday, it is not “served” until the next court day

If you send your papers by regular first-class mail, you can have an extra copy sent by certified mail, return receipt requested, for extra proof of mailing. You can staple the green return receipt card to the Proof of Service form. (This is not required.)

8. File your Proof of Mailing or Hand Delivery. As soon as you have mailed or delivered the delivered the papers to the prosecutor, fill out and sign the Proof of Mailing or Hand Delivery form. Then:

- Make 3 copies
- Take the original and copies to the court clerk’s office
- Give the original to the clerk for filing
- Ask the clerk to stamp the date you filed the original on your copies
- Bring your copies to the hearing.

9. Get ready for the court hearing. Before the hearing, make a brief outline of what you want the court to know. When the court asks you to speak, say something like this:

- My name is _____. Thank you for letting me be heard. I’m bringing a motion to vacate my drug possession conviction based on the State v. Blake case that was decided in 2021.
- I was convicted of drug possession under RCW 69.50.4013 or an earlier simple drug possession statute.
- I’ve a given a copy of my proposed order to the prosecution. May I hand it up to you now?

10. Go to your court hearing. Read the next chapter for what to bring and do at the hearing.

11. Get certified copies of the signed order from the clerk. When the order is available, go to the clerk's office and ask for at least 2 certified copies of the signed orders. The clerk will charge you for the copies.

Keep a certified copy of your order with you in case someone, like a prospective employer, gets negative information from some other source.

12. Apply for your LFO refund, if any. After you get the vacate order, if the judge decided you're eligible for an LFO refund, you must apply for payment with the Washington Courts Blake Refund Bureau (<https://refund.courts.wa.gov/>). If you have trouble with the Refund Bureau, get legal help.

13. After the hearing, follow up with the Washington State Patrol (WSP) and other agencies.

7. Court hearing

Bring your copies of the documents that the clerk's office and prosecutor's office date stamped. Also bring the extra copies of your Proof of Mailing or Hand Delivery and Order to Vacate.

If you have children, try to find someone to watch them while you go to court. The judge probably won't let them sit in the courtroom.

Don't bring a weapon, or something that could be mistaken for a weapon (like a pocketknife), to the courthouse.

Try to be in the courtroom at least 15 minutes before you were told to be there. Give yourself time to find parking, or the right transit stop, or to wait in line to get into the courthouse.

If your hearing is online, follow these tips for phone and video hearings.

When you get to the courtroom:

- Check in with the courtroom clerk. Usually, they are sitting at a desk close to the judge. Tell the courtroom clerk your name because they need to know that you are there.
- Find the prosecutor and introduce yourself. Go over any last-minute details with them before the hearing, like an agreed order.
- When the judge calls your case, walk up to the table or podium for lawyers in front of the judge. Wait for them to tell you that it is your turn to speak. Follow your outline.
- During the hearing, speak only to the judge. Speak only when it is your turn. Don't interrupt the judge or speak to the prosecutor, even if they interrupt or speak to you.

- Be polite, reasonable, and calm. If you're confused or don't understand something, politely tell the judge so and ask for clarification. If the judge asks you any questions, answer the best you can. If you don't know the answer to the judge's question, don't guess. Tell the judge you don't know the answer. If you need time to think, just tell the court you need a moment. Take your time.
- If the judge agrees with you and signs your order, ask the judge or courtroom clerk when the order will be available at the clerk's office.

8. Follow up

Check with Washington State Patrol & other agencies

About a month after the judge signs your vacate order, call WSP at (360) 534-2000. Ask WSP if they got your vacate order from the court and are working on processing it. (The clerk should have sent it.) If they don't yet have it, call the court clerk's office and ask them to send a copy to WSP.

About 3 months after you called the WSP to make sure they got your vacate order, you should check if your criminal history record with WSP is up-to-date and correct. Do this by ordering a new official and/or unofficial copy of your criminal history report.

Your criminal history info may have found its way into other databases. Contact the FBI, local law enforcement, Department of Corrections, Department of Licensing, and other agencies to ask them to remove their records about this info from public dissemination. You may need to send them a certified copy of the vacate order.

A private data company may have your conviction record. Ask the agencies to tell any private company that has gotten the record from them in the past to update their records and stop disseminating it because of the vacate order. You may need to send them a certified copy of your order.

Try to keep at least 1 certified copy of your order in case someone, like a prospective employer, gets negative info from some other source.

Tips for filling out the Proof of Mailing or Hand Delivery (NJP General 002)

Fill out this form after serving the other party. Whoever served the other party must sign it. Follow the rules for service after a case starts.

Blake Motion to Vacate Drug Possession Conviction and Refund Paid LFOs Amounts

1. My name is _____.

I am the defendant in this case.

2. Motion

I ask the court for an order under CrR 7.8 (b)(4), (5) and GR 15(b)(8), vacating the record of my simple drug possession conviction under RCW 69.50.4013(1) for offenses committed from 2004 to the present, and/or under RCW 69.50.401(d) from 1979 to 2004, and/or of RCW 69.50.401(c) from 1971 to 1979.

This motion is based on State v. Blake, 481 P.3d 521 (Wash. 2021), the case record and files, and my declaration.

In Blake, the Washington State Supreme Court held that the possession of a controlled substance statute, RCW 69.50.4013, was unconstitutional, because it violates due process and therefore is void. I move this Court to vacate the conviction under this statute, and its predecessor statutes, because the Court lacks inherent authority to render the judgment.

3. Declaration of Defendant

- RCW 69.50.4013(1), for convictions on or after July 1, 2004,
