Juvenile court records include crimes you were accused of committing, even if you never had a trial, as well as offenses you were found guilty of. These are public records. So unless they're sealed or destroyed, anyone can see them. They may come up in a background check when you apply for a job or housing.

Sealing the record makes it private so that only people in the court and some law enforcement can see it. It shouldn't show up on a background check after it has been sealed.

Even though a record has been sealed, it does still exist. Records may be unsealed if you are convicted of a new juvenile offense, adult crime, or if you are charged with a felony.

When can records be destroyed

Only diversion records can be destroyed. The juvenile court should automatically destroy records of successfully completed diversion agreements after you reach age 18.

If your juvenile criminal history shows records that should've been destroyed but weren't, you can use WA Forms Online to fill out forms to ask the juvenile court to destroy your records now. You don't need to seal records that should be destroyed.

(<https://walawhelp.gavel.io/start/playground2/Seal%20Vacate%20Destroy%20Juvenile%20Records>)

When can records be sealed?

For most juvenile offenses, your record can be sealed if all of these are true:

- You don't have any criminal charges pending against you now.
- You don't currently have to register as a sex offender.
- You don't owe any restitution to a named victim for the case you want to seal. (A named victim is a person or business. It doesn't include government agencies or insurance companies.)
- It's been more than 2 years since the date of your last sentencing (disposition), or the date you were last released from detention, prison, or jail — whichever is later. If the offense is a Class A Felony, it must be more than 5 years.

Different rules apply if your offense was Rape 1, Rape 2, or Indecent liberties with actual force. Try to talk to a lawyer for advice.

My records can be sealed. Should I also get them vacated?

We recommend asking the court to seal and vacate for a full restoration of your rights. This can matter for FBI background checks and security clearances. Just sealing your records may not be enough.

To vacate your record, the judge may want information from someone other than you about how you're doing. It's not required, but you may want to get one or two letters in support to bring to your hearing. Ask people who know you well to write the letters. You can use the sample letter included with these forms. The letters can be very short, simply explaining how long they've known you and that you've stayed out of trouble.

2. Before you file

Before you start filling out forms, make sure you can answer these questions:

- What is the cause number of your case? (Examples: 17-8-987234-63, 04-8-98734-1)
- Was it a trial or dismissal?
- What is the date of your trial, plea or dismissal?
- Do you owe the court any money?
- What is the charge on your record? (Examples: Assault, Malicious Mischief, Theft)
- What is the classification of the offense? (Examples: Class A Felony, Class B Felony, Class C Felony, Misdemeanor, Gross Misdemeanor)

If you don't have this information, contact the Juvenile Court ask them to print you off a copy of your juvenile criminal history. Use this court directory (https://www.courts.wa.gov/court_dir/?fa=court_dir.county) to find contact information for Juvenile Courts by county.

3. Step-by-step

Follow these steps to seal and vacate your juvenile court records.

1. Fill out the forms. You can fill them out online (<https://walawhelp.gavel.io/start/playground2/Seal%20Vacate%20Destroy%20Juvenile%20Court%20Records>) or print to fill out by hand.

Pierce and some other counties require you to use their own forms. Ask the juvenile court clerk or administrator in your county if they have special forms to seal and vacate juvenile court records. If not, use ours.

2. Call or visit the Juvenile Court for the county where your records are.

Tell the clerk you'll be filing a motion to seal and vacate your juvenile offense records. Tell the clerk you want to schedule a hearing on your motion 3 or 4 weeks from now.

Ask the clerk:

- What day and time can I schedule a hearing on a motion to seal and vacate records?
- What courtroom will the hearing be in? (This may be assigned on the day of the hearing.)
- Is there an option to appear remotely? (Phone or video.)
- Where should I go to file my motion? (Juvenile court or Superior Court Clerk's Office)
- Write in the hearing details you got from the clerk on the Notice form.

In some counties the judge may decide these motions without a hearing. If the clerk says you don't need a hearing date, check the box for “No hearing is scheduled” in section 1 of the Notice form. You still must follow all the steps below (except preparing for and going to the hearing).

The clerk may say they’ll seal your case without a hearing, but not vacate it. We recommend asking for a hearing to get the vacate for a full restoration of your rights. This can matter for FBI background checks and some gun rights. Just sealing your records may not be enough.

3. Make copies. Address envelopes.

Look at the Notice form. Count the number of agencies the Notice says it is “TO.” Make enough copies of the Motion, Notice, and Order forms to give one set to each agency.

Write each agency’s name and address on a separate envelope. Put one set of copies into each envelope.

The agency addresses are listed on your Notice form. Some agencies may share an address. You still must make a separate copy for each agency.

4. File the originals with the court.

The clerk should not charge you a fee to file this motion.

To file in person:

- Bring your originals and copies to the county Juvenile Court or Superior Court Clerk's Office (wherever the clerk told you to file when you asked them)
- Give the clerk your set of originals to file
- Ask the clerk to stamp your copies to show the date you filed the originals, OR stamp the copies yourself
- Take the stamped copies back from the clerk. The clerk keeps the originals

To file by mail: mail the court clerk your originals plus one set of copies with a postage-paid return envelope addressed to you.

5. Deliver or mail copies to everyone listed on the Notice form the same day you file.

You can deliver the copies in-person (hand delivery) or by mail. You don't have to do both.

Hand Delivery means handing a copy to someone who works in the office. Have them stamp the date on your copy of the same papers.

Mail: If you send your papers by regular first-class mail, you can have an extra copy sent by certified mail, return receipt requested, for extra proof of mailing. Attach a copy of the green return receipt card to the Proof of Service form.

6. Get letters of support (optional)

To vacate your record, the judge may want information from someone other than you about how you're doing. It is not required, but you may want to get one or two Letters in Support to bring to your hearing. Ask people who know you well to write the letters. You can use the sample letter included with these forms. The letters can be very short, simply explaining how long they have known you and that you have stayed out of trouble.

7. The Prosecutor may contact you before the hearing.

If the Prosecutor agrees to seal your record, that's great!

But, the Prosecutor may agree only to seal your record, not vacate it. Again, we recommend asking for a hearing to get the vacate for a full restoration of your rights. You can tell the Prosecutor you want the judge to decide. Once the record is sealed, you can't come back to ask for a vacate later.

8. Go to your court hearing, if there is one. Read chapter 4 for how to get ready and what to expect at the hearing.

9. Get a certified copy of the signed order from the clerk.

When the order is available, go to the clerk's office and ask for a certified copy of the signed order. Our proposed order says you should get one certified copy for free. If the judge crosses that out, you'll have to pay for it. It should cost less than $10.

If you can't afford a certified copy, get a regular copy. Otherwise you'll have no proof that your record has been sealed. It will be very hard to get a copy later.

You should keep a copy of your order in case someone, like a prospective employer or landlord, gets negative information from some other source.

10. Send the “Letter to agencies after order is signed” together with a copy of the signed order to every agency involved.

Make enough copies of the letter and signed order for you to bring or mail one to all the agencies you sent the Notice form to, except for the Washington State Patrol (WSP). The clerk is required to send a copy to the WSP, so you don’t have to.

This step is the big one! If you don’t send an agency a copy of your signed order, they won’t know your record is sealed.

It may take the agencies some time to update their records. You can pay $10 to check your criminal history report with the WSP to make sure the record is gone.

Sometimes the clerk will give a copy of the order to the Prosecutor and Probation offices. You can ask the clerk if they do that. If not, bring or mail a copy to the Prosecutor and Probation offices, just like you’re doing for the other agencies.

Your criminal history information may have found its way into other databases. A state agency or private data company may have still have the information. You may have to send them a copy of the signed order.

11. Congratulations!

After the judge signs your order, you can treat the sealed offense/s as if they never occurred. You don't have to admit the sealed offense ever happened. If all your offenses are sealed or destroyed, you can answer 'no' if asked about criminal history.

4. Hearing

Bring your copies of the Motion and Notice forms to the hearing. Also bring the extra copy of your Order on Motion to Seal and Vacate.

Dress as if you were going to a job interview. Arrive 30 minutes early.

When you get to the courtroom:

- Check in with the courtroom clerk. Usually, they're sitting at a desk close to the judge. Tell the courtroom clerk your name — they need to know you're there.
- Wait for your name to be called. The judge may want to talk to you. They may ask about what you've been doing, and why you'd like to seal and vacate your record. If you brought any letters in support, tell the judge about them now and hand them to the bailiff.
- Be polite, reasonable, and calm. If you're confused or don't understand something, politely tell the judge so and ask for clarification. If the judge asks you any questions, answer the best you can. If you don't know the answer to the judge's question, don't guess. Tell the judge you don't know the answer. If you need time to think, just tell the court you need a moment. Take your time.

- The judge may ask if you sent the copies to all the listed agencies. Answer honestly.
- Some courts use their own orders, but if they ask if you have brought one, hand the order you brought to the Bailiff. If they ask where you got them, you can say that you got them from Washington Law Help. The bailiff will hand your order to the judge. You can wait for the order to be signed.
- If the judge agrees with you and signs your order, ask the judge or courtroom clerk when the order will be available at the clerk's office. Tell them you want a certified copy.

Address this letter to the all the same agencies you listed on the Notice form. Attach a copy of the signed Order from the judge.
